Two Awards for the John Coltrane Museum and Cultural Arts Center

Completed in May 2021, the John Coltrane Museum and Cultural Arts Center site feasibility study has won two prestigious local awards. The first, In October, was an Honor Award in the unbuilt planning category from AIA Philadelphia.

Accepting the award at the December 2 gala were Abby Freed, Kathy Babcock, Emmanuel Kelly, and Kelsey Whalen. Also pictured are Sharla Russell with the City of Philadelphia and client Tonnetta Graham of the Strawberry Mansion Community Development Corporation.

On March 10 we learned that the project won the John Gallery Community Action Award for achievement by community organizations from the Preservation Alliance for Greater Philadelphia.

Congratulations to all who worked on this important neighborhood cultural improvement project sponsored by the Community Design Collaborative and commissioned by the Strawberry Mansion Community Development Corporation. For more information about the project click here.
